Edward Raynsford of Boston

299

Raynsford, housewright, and Solomon Raynsford, joiner, "exrs. of will of our honored father Elder Edward Raynsford late of Boston, deceased, merchant, who was admr. of the estate of his son Nathan Raynsford late of Boston, deceased," joined William Greenough for his children by Elizabeth his wife, deceased; Raynous Belcher, relict of Josiah Belcher deceased, "both daughters of sd. Elder Edward Raynsford"; John Marion Junr for the children of John Raynsford, deceased, "son of sd. Elder Edward Raynsford"; Solomon Raynsford, executor, for children of Anna Haugh, deceased, "another daughter." They agreed that the house and land formerly belonging to Nathan Raynsford should go to Huldah, "widow of Edward Raynsford Jr, deceased." This agreement apparently sealed an earlier deed by the same parties dated 1 Oct. 1690 and containing a release by John Raynsford, son of John Raynsford, deceased, for John Marion to act on his behalf. On 1 Nov. 1691 the same parties deeded land to Richard Middlecot, John Raynsford including a release that he acted "in behalf of my Brethren & sisters." The second Finding of Arbitration was dated 19 Jan. 1692 and determined that (1) three gold rings in custody of Solomon Raynsford from his mother's estate were to be equally divided among the children of David Raynsford, Solomon Raynsford, and Eranus Belcher, deceased; (2) Solomon's debt of £9-10-08 to his father's estate was to be equally divided and distributed to the children of John, David and Solomon Raynsford, the children of Eranis Belcher and Elizabeth Gooden; (3) 40 shillings which Solomon had of his mother to deliver to his sister Perifull were to be so delivered (Suffolk Co. Deeds, 15:88, 154, 156; 16:26).
